

Contact:

Taunya D. Said
(240) 593-4673
tdtsproductions@yahoo.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Emerging Author Celebrates the Launch of New Series With Book Signing

Smart Alec Alex: Changing Schools and Classroom Rules

October 9, 2019 - Laurel, MD - Full-time federal government worker turned author, Taunya D. Said, found her passion for writing on a slow night of her part-time job as a telemarketer in 2009. Her childlike spirit will fill you up with laughter and draw you into her new hilarious series, Smart Alec Alex. She turned her childhood stories and the likeness of her now 23-year-old daughter, India, into a humorous series about Alexandra P. Knowitall.

Alex is a sixth-grader at T.K. Spittle Middle School and is best known for her "know it all" attitude. She believes she is the smartest kid in school, but in reality, she is just a smart aleck. Follow Alex and her friends Candice, Sissy, and Calvin, as they navigate through their new journey into rotating classes as middle schoolers. Along the way, you will meet the many wacky personalities of each teacher. The art teacher is a whimsical lady whose personality is as big as her hair, the English teacher doesn't exactly speak English, and the math teacher is so short, he has to carry around a stool to stand on to teach class.

Celebrate Smart Alec Alex: Changing Schools and Classroom Rules official release at Taunya D. Said's book signing November 2, 2019. The event will be held at the Laurel Boys and Girls Club, 701 Montgomery St, Laurel, MD 20707. Smart Alec Alex will be available for purchase. The first 24 guests to purchase the book will receive a bag filled with Smart Alec Alex themed goodies.

Also available on Amazon as a paperback for $12.99 and an ebook for $3.99.

For more information, visit: SmartAlecAlex.com

78 Pages
For ages 8 - 12 yrs old
Published Oct. 2019
ISBN 978-1-696-03320-6
(Amazon paperback)

